

TOUR A LUXURY PROPERTY DESIGNED BY BOTTEGA VENETA

The 5,000-square-foot Fisher Island property showcases furniture and accessories from the fashion brand.

BY MONIQUE VALERIS
MAR 27, 2019

It's no secret that fashion and interiors go hand in hand, but Bottega Veneta is making this clear with a luxury property it designed on famed Fisher Island in Miami Beach. The 5,000-square-foot space in Palazzo Del Sol, a new residential development, is complete with furniture and decor from the Italian luxury goods and high fashion brand. Currently listed for $16 million, it features everything you'd envision for a Bottega Veneta-designed interior: think rich hues, European oak wood flooring, leather and suede details, and brushed bronze accents.

“This collaboration between Palazzo Del Sol and Bottega Veneta represents the pinnacle of quality, craftsmanship, luxury and sophistication in a residential project,” says Heinrich von Hanau, CEO of Fisher Island Holdings and PDS Development LLC, who collaborated with Bottega Veneta’s Milan-based team to craft the residence. “A true meeting of the minds, we both take great pride in upholding the integrity of our brands and exceptional quality of our products. It is an honor for Palazzo Del Sol to serve as the location for their first residential project in the United States.”

Scroll down for a look inside the spacious residential property.

1 THE BOFFI GOURMET KITCHEN

Adrian Gaut

Furnishings from the Bottega Veneta Home Collection appear throughout the residence.

2 THE MASTER BEDROOM

Adrian Gaut

The open floorplan includes four bedrooms.

3 THE LIVING ROOM

Adrian Gaut

The design team opted for a sophisticated, neutral palette.

4 THE MASTER BATHROOM

Adrian Gatz

There are four bathrooms and a powder room, including this design that is clad in Margraf statuarium book-matched marble.

5 AN OFFICE

Adrian Gatz

Luxurious table lamps, featuring Bottega Veneta's iconic intrecciato weave, add character to the design scheme.

6 THE TERRACE

It also includes outdoor living spaces with stunning views of the Atlantic Ocean, South Beach, Biscayne Bay, Downtown Miami, and Fisher Island's gorgeous grounds and golf course.